stock Brokers Lose Their Reputs tions as Prophets.

What has become of $5,000,000? There somewhat of a mystery over the whereabouts of the large sum of money recently received by Washington investors in payment for their stock in the Metropolitan and Columbia railways, and it does not require much stretching of the truth to state that it has disappeared utterly.

Local business men, brokers in stocks predicting for two months that the pay-ment of this immense amount of ready money to local capitalists would be the signal for great activity in securities and ly at from 4 to 5 per cent, where a few months ago even, it would have commanded from 5 to 6. American Securities. The chief argument of the Wall Street contingent which preaches lower prices for stock market securities is that prices now are too high. Having advanced for the better part of two years, it is said, it is now not only natural but absolutely certain that railway stock prices should decline. The "New York Times" furnishes a most convincing commentary on this ar-gument in a comparison between the pres-ent quotations of American and English

"It is conceded by intelligent railway men the world over that American rail-ways are more conservatively managed than those of any European country. Many mprovements are charged to operating expenses by American managers which English railway managers place to capi-tal account. The capital stock of most of the English railroads grows year by of the English railroads grows year by year, while in recent years increases in the capital stock and bonds of American roads have been comparatively small, and in most cases the new securities have been issued for the acquirement of new properties. A CORNER IN CATTLE.

Texas Ranches,

Austin, Tex., June 25.-L. M. Grogan, nember of the State Legislature from Nolan county, is here, and is authority for the statement that an English syndicate with a capital of $100,000,000 has started in to purchase all of the cattle in Texas, with a view of cornering the cattle market of the country. He says that the syndi-cate is operating in this State through George G. Lowing, of Fort Worth, and that in the Panhandle and West Texas section, whence he has just arrived, options have been secured on hundreds of thousands of head of cattle.

These options are all for ninety days, and include cattle of all classes, as well as ranch properties, in every instance when attainable.

Mr. Grogan is a cattleman in the Pan-handle, and claims to have positive knowl-edge of the movement that is being made by the English syndicate. Mr. Loving the representative of the syndicate, is Secretary of the Texas Cattle Raisers' As-sociation, and is thoroughly familiar with the market and existing conditions as to the cattle industry in the State. The total number of cattle in the State is about six million head, and their assessed value is million head, and their assessed value about $60,000,000.

STOCK MARKET PROSPECTS. Better Crop Outlook Has a Cheerful

Influence on Values. New York, June 25 .- The coming week is looked forward to with much interest by all factions of Wall Street. It is realfized that it gives promise more than any recent week of furnishing a decisive victory for either the bears or the bulls. The action of the stock market on Friday and Saturday of last week showed new elements in the situation which the friends of prosperity believe to be most important Crop damage recitations cease, and Wall Street is inclined to believe that, after all, we are going to have normal harvests Bumper crops may not come, but trustworthy indications promise surplus in substantial volume to meet export requirements. Crop reports from Europe tell of damage in important districts, and there is small doubt that there will be large foreign demands upon us.

Aside from crop damage tales, now pretty fully disposed of, there has been no factor in the situation warranting anything other than confidence in Western railway values. The granger stocks are likely even to be leaders in security mar-ket improvement as soon as new activity starts, and there will be new activity as who have given the subject investigation to be sounder investments than Euglish railway shares. Improvements charged to operating expenses increase the power to carn and make it easy in bad times to earn full dividends, while the continual increase in capital, such as is being made in the case of the English roads, renders it harder to earn full dividends when conditions are temporarily adverse. This being the case, it is argued that there is no apparent roason why the stocks of English of importance which even adroit efforts terests are credited with having come into very close and agreeable relationships with Messrs, Elkins and Widener, and Mr. Whitney. Rumors in plenty circulate suggesting that the Third Avenue and Metro politan are also figuring in impending con solidation deals, but authoritative state ments to this effect are not available. The return of Mr. Cornelius Vanderbill and Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt from abroad construed in Wall Street as significant readiness in the Vanderbilt quarter t make official announcements out of th ordinary. Both Eastern and Western rall-ways in which Vanderbilt interests contro-have been conspicuously strong features of the stock market during the past few days, and friends of Mr. J. The earnings of the better class of has trial stocks have been, and continue to be, phenomenal and on the whole the disposition is undoubtedly to believe that thes earnings will have their legitimate reward in much higher prices in the near future. "When I rejected Dick he didn't s put out; I can't understand it."

"Well, I can; Dick is used to it. He used to write poetry and get a dosen rejections every week."

Smith was taken before Judge Hurd, in the County Court, in Brooklyn, last Wednesday, and told that no indictment had been found against him. His sister was in the court room, and when her brother was set free immediately took him away with her.

FOUND A LONG LOST BROTHER. Would-Be Bridge Jumper Claimed by

His Rich Sister. New York, June 25.-There was an affecting scene in the Raymond Street Jail, in Brooklyn, a few days ago, when a richly dressed woman of middle age, who dedired to tell her name or address, disovered that a prisoner there was her brother, from whom she had long been parted. The man had been arrested on the night of June 6 while trying to jump from the Brooklyn Bridge. He told the police he was John Smith, but the woman police he was John Smith, but the works said this name was assumed.

When she called at the jail she was greatly excited, and her voice trembled with emotion as she begged to see the prisoner. John Wilson, a keeper, led her to him.

She spoke to him in Swedish, and at almost her first word he uttered an exclamation of pleasure and held out both hands to her. They embraced and kissed.

"This is my brother," explained the woman to the keeper. "I have not seen him since I was a little girl, in Sweden, nearly since I was a little girl, in Sweeck, darky twenty-five years ago."

She asked to be allowed to take the man away with her, and seemed deeply grieved when she learned that he must be held to await the action of the grand jury. She said she lived in Manhattan, and that her husband was a successful business man. Smith was taken before Judge Hurd, in
